Introduction to Furtwangen University of Applied Sciences

Furtwangen University (known by its German acronym "HFU") focuses on applied learning and research in mechanical engineering, information and media sciences, business and health sciences — and has been ranked among Germany's top universities in a number of these fields by major national publications and surveys conducted amongst students and employers.

With about 5,500 students, the academic community is large enough to enjoy modern laboratories, a highly modern IT infrastructure, and one of Germany's best science libraries, yet small enough to maintain a personal touch. Small class sizes, regular personal contact with the teaching staff, and an excellent learning environment help guarantee good results and a positive experience.

Students and staff also benefit from the large international population on campus, as well as the natural beauty of the surrounding regions, including Germany's renowned Black Forest. The enormous range of activities on campus includes over 30 different sports, from skiing and climbing to tennis and mountain biking.

Students generally earn a bachelor's degree within seven semesters, including a semester-long work placement and thesis. In addition, students gain experience through team-oriented project work, or during a study semester abroad at one of our more than 140 foreign partner universities worldwide.

Master degree programmes at HFU usually take three semesters to complete.
