

Tips for direct application as a Freemover

1. First look on the website of the university to check whether they have any information about freemovers.

Important: The expression „freemover“ is used mainly in Europe. The following expressions are also often used:

- non-degree seeking student
- study abroad student
- visiting student

2. If you do not find any information on the website, send an email to their International Office and ask about:

- Admission requirements
- Application procedures and deadlines
- Tuition fees
- Choice of courses available (give the specific subject area you are interested in and ask whether there are any special requirements or restrictions)

Important: In your correspondence you should use the expressions given in point 1 above to avoid misunderstandings.
